The Glenside Color Computer Club Is both happy and proud to announce the "First Annual Last CocoFest". It is to be held in Chicago and The Glenside Color Computer Club will be the Host Club. We urge all vendors and users to support the Coco by attending this FEST. It is an excellent opportunity for vendors to show off their wares and it is an excellent opportunity for everybody to see what is new on the market as well as an opportunity to buy the old reliable software and hardware that the Coco uses so well. The Glenside Club is fully supporting this Fest by paying for its own booth and also paying for a hospitality room. It will be an excellent time for all who attend. If you never attended a "FEST" in the past make an effort to come to this one. If you did go past Fests then you have an idea what to expect but either way come to this one. The reason it is called the First Last Annual CocoFest is that if attendance is not enough to draw vendors or if there aren't enough vendors there won't be a Second Annual Last CocoFest. This Fest is Sponsored by DNM Enterprises and the prices for booths have never been lower. Just as the booth prices are low so too are the ticket prices. This was designed to help the struggling vendors and also to allow attendees to have more cash to spend at the booths. It is the opportunity for both the users and vendors to pull together and support the entire community. Support must come from both sides. Take a chance. Contact Dave Myers about special prices. Support the best little computer ever made. Hope to see you there.
